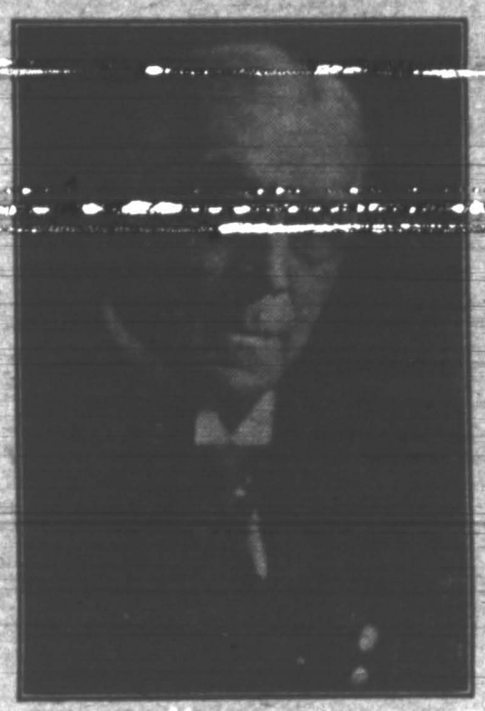
Mine Host Jordan Presenting Frederick Warde at Pine Inn

John B. Jordan has arranged another benefit for Arts and Crafts, and those who attended his Twelfth Night party last year are looking forward to it with pleasure. February 9th is the date chosen and the entertainment comprises a dinner at Pine Inn, a reading of Julius Caesar by Frederic Warde, and a dance to good music. The price of a ticket, two dollars, covers the whole. First choice of [illegible] offered to members of Arts and Crafts and of the Forest Theater, who will show wisdom in acting quickly, remembering how many late comers had to be refused last year.



Frederick Warde

The proceeds Mr. Jordan generously offers to the Arts and Crafts, who here convey to him their hearty thanks.

Frederick Warde, an Englishman, who came to this country in his early twenties, is a distinguished Shakespearian actor of the fine old tradition. He was associated with Louis Jamee in numberless productions years ago, his Marc Antony being especially remembered. After giving up the stage he lectured on subjects connected with the Shakespearian drama, then was induced to act again, playing for three years the part of Father Serra in the San Gabriel Mission play. His name stirs many memories here, and those who have never heard him are waiting with interest the product of his ripe and scholarly art.

Still Plenty to Come

To date close to three hundred voters have enrolled their names on the new Great Register. In the November election in 1922 there were over six hundred names on the register. This year it is probable there will be eight hundred. Every citizen should register now.

Free Seeds

A generous quantity of vegetable seeds has been supplied the Pine Cone by the United States Department of Agriculture for free distribution. Call and obtain a packet for spring planting.

Prominent Critic Commends Work of Carmel Artist

In the Los Angeles Times of Sunday, January 20, Anthony Anderson, art critic, has the following to say concerning one of Carmel's best known artists. We herewith reprint the article in full:

WILLIAM SILVA'S
GARDEN OF DREAMS

William Silva of Carmel-by-the-Sea is a poet in paint. Admittedly a hackneyed term, but go to his exhibition at the Carmell-Chaffia galleries and at a single glance you will understand why I use the term "poet." This artist of the silver tones has gone on his way garnering honors here and abroad, but always remaining true to his original tendency.

Silva has an unusually personal feeling for those happy yet delicate moods of nature which, perhaps better than other aspects of the earth's beauty, lend themselves as subject matter for happy and harmonious pictures. In the whole group shown here, there is not one canvas which lacks the subtle, silvery charm that delights the eye and quiets the mind into happy reflections. The very name of the man is euphonious with the quality of his work.

Recipient of many honors in earlier years, William Silva in 1922 exhibited abroad and received an honorable mention in the Salon des Artistes Francaise, an honor accorded to only three Americans at that time.

This award was given for the canvas "Afternoon," one of his beautiful and famous series, "In the Garden of Dreams." This series, an article on which appeared in a recent number of the American Magazine of Art, was painted in a lovely, semi-tropical garden of old South Carolina. "Garden of Dreams" it is aptly named, and William Silva was just the man to catch the elusive spirit of these misty groves, these quiet pearly waters, and the charming color of azalias in tender lights. At early morning, in quiet evening and in the purple moonlight, he studied and wove these lovely harmonies of color; tall trees from whose branches hang the clinging moss of the South, and mirror of the lake reflecting the heavens above.

The "Temple of Love, Trianon," loaned by Mrs. Isaac Milbank, is a tender and very true study of autumn in this beautiful French park.

"Dawn," a large picture of fishing boats off the rocky headland of Point Lobos, is one of Silva's finest achievements. The picture is handled in silver [illegible] painted by the pale pinks of a misty morning. The heavy boats lie so still, wrapped in mystery, their sails idly awaiting a breeze. Sea gulls wheel in the still morning air with their weird cries, and the reflection from a single bowlight cuts a swath of gold through the shadow of the boats.

A small picture of "Notre Dame de Paris" seen through morning mist is especially fine in color values and composition. From France come also "Springtime on the Marne" and "Au[illegible]" [illegible] and quiet waters, lovely themes for the painter.

There are several canvases from the rocky Carmel coast, handled in a bold, decorative manner, deep blue waters and golden California cliffs. The artist does not fail to adapt his treatment to his subject. In fact, I feel that this is almost an instinctive process, so well does his technique fit each mood he expresses.

In choosing the Southern Carolina magnolia gardens for a theme he was instinctively right. His whole art peculiarly fits him for such a dreamlike subject. No other artist would have been likely to handle it in just such a manner. Few would have had the courage to save up their darks for the blue-black waters, yet how just is the result, and as you will recognize, if you have seen these wonderful gardens, how true to nature.

Distinguished Speakers for A. & C. Informals

The Arts and Crafts Club is fortunate in having secured as speaker for its next regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, February 11th, an extraordinary and distinguished woman whose career and experiences are almost without parallel. Mrs. French-Sheldon, F. R. G. S., the first woman-explorer of Africa, the first Caucasian to set foot in some parts of that mysterious land, has most kindly consented to relate to the club members and their friends some of her experiences, illustrated by lantern-slides of unique interest. Further particulars of Mrs. French-Sheldon's services to science will be given in the next Pine Cone.

On Saturday, February 16th, the club will have another interesting speaker to present to its members and their friends. Mrs. Fairley, a New York architect now on the coast, will lecture of New Zealand, its flora, fauna and institutions. Mrs. Fairley has traveled extensively, and this lecture is based on a residence of two years in New Zealand.

A strong membership committee appointed by the president and already outlining work comprises Miss M. DeNeale Morgan, Mrs. E. A. Kluegel, Dr. Amelia L. Gates, Mrs. John Leavell, Miss Elizabeth McClung White and Arthur Cyril.

Second Concert of Grove Musical Society

The Pacific Grove Musical Society announces the second of its series of orchestra and chorus concerts.

It is not a far journey to Pacific Grove and it is worth while going to hear the concert next Tuesday night. Attend and be convinced that the society needs encouragement.

The Grove organization has inaugurated a commendable work, and while its success is at present only local, it is surely destined to be of sufficient importance to attract the leaders of the musical world in other parts of the state.

The desire of our neighboring city musical society is that the music loving people of Carmel shall come to the concerts and learn at first hand what has been accomplished.

Read the Catechism

In order that property owners and others may understand the new zoning ordinance the "City Zoning Catechism," inaugurated in last week's Pine Cone, is continued this week. Read it. Perhaps your question is answered.

Mrs. Ida M. Theurer and Mrs. Frank Fergus of Los Angeles are stopping for a week in the former's cottage, "Dardanella."

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Merner of San Mateo, who recently purchased property in Carmel, have been spending a few days here.

Prospects for Early Completion of Coast Highway Promising

Work on the Carmel-Simeon highway goes on. While we are a long way from the scene of operation, gaps are being filled in at various places along the sixty-three miles between here and San Louis Obispo county.

Blake and Heuey have about completed the grade from the Monterey county line north to Salmon creek, along the ocean front near San Simeon. Further north the Pollard company is working south from the Big Sur, 18.1 miles [illegible] canyon. Hundreds of feet above the foaming breakers massive power shovels are working night and day.

The prospects for the completion of the entire road are brighter now than ever. Harvey M. Toy, president of the state highway commission, is on record as favoring the road, and in order to complete this and other contemplated highway work he is an advocate of a two hundred million dollar bond issue.

Joint Meeting of County Officials

California county tax collectors and auditors will meet at Del Monte, February 11, in annual convention. The meetings will continue until the evening of February 13.

Mrs. Viola Rice, deputy county tax collector, has asked the co-operation of the Monterey Women's Civic Club in entertaining the wives of the visitors and a luncheon in their honor is to be held in Monterey on February 12, Lincoln's birthday, under the auspices of the club.

Many recommendations will be made to the legislature as a result of the convention, according to Albert T. Eaves, president of the auditors' organization. A large attendance is forecasted by H. C. Sweetser, president of the joint associations.

Annual Meeting of All Saints' Parish

The annual meeting of All Saints' Parish, held last week at the home of Mrs. P. A. Prince, was presided over by the new rector, Rev. A. B. Chinn. Mrs. Henry Wallace acted as secretary.

Churchmen present were Dr. C. A. McCollom, A. H. Roseboom and the rector.

Churchwomen present were Mrs. P. A. Prince, Mrs. Charles Clark, Miss M. De Neale Morgan, Mrs. C. A. McCollom, Mrs. G. W. Reamer, Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Henry Wallace.

The Treasurer reported $98.75 on hand.

All the vestry were re-elected as follows: P. A. Prince, Dr. C. A. McCollom and A. H. Roseboom, who were also elected delegates to the Diocesan convention.

The secretary was directed to prepare a resolution of sorrow for the passing of Rev. F. G. Williams, a copy of same to be sent to Mrs. Williams and also to be published in the Pine Cone.

"Lord of the Wessex Coast"

Thomas Hardy, the English novelist, called by Kipling "Lord of the Wessex coast and of the lands thereby," lives near Dorchester. Recently he received a visit from the Prince of Wales and as a result of the royal visit, photographs of the novelist and the prince abound in the illustrated English press. Mr. Hardy's workshop is a top room of Max Gate, his home, from the windows of which are noble views of woods, downs, and meadows, with the waters of the Frome meandering among them. When engaged on his novels, Mr. Hardy betakes himself to this room immediately after breakfast each day, and writes steadily until the whole day's work is done. If anything interferes with that schedule he finds it impossible to settle down to work again until after sunset.

Old Secret Discovered

A maker of stringed instruments in Italy has discovered the secret of the [illegible] which used to give to the old instruments their marvelous sonority. He found the secret in an Italian manuscript dated 1716 and states that it is made with [illegible] and is not soluble in alcohol. The varnish was invented by the brothers Van Eyck and used by their Flemish successors. From Holland the secret of its making was brought to Italy by Antonello da Messina, and it became known to the Cremonese through some painter in the sixteenth century.

Impressions of Important Persons

Frederick L. Collins author of "This King Business," has done some extraordinary work in gathering vivid impressions of important personalities. He ran a syndicate which supplied a features to daily newspapers a sort of literary flashlights of prominent folk all over the world. Three trips to Europe since the war, in the course of which he visited England, France, Italy, Austria, Rumania, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Belgium and Holland have yielded more personal contacts and behind-the-scenes data than a correspondent usually secures. He treats his personages equally without awe and without any conscientiously republican gestures, and gives refreshing reality to figures about some of which absurd popular traditions have gathered.

The William T. Sherman Statue

One of the [illegible] statues in Washington is that of General William Tecumseh Sherman of Civil war fame. It stands in the center of a beautiful park just south of the United States Treasury, and can be seen from Pennsylvania avenue where that famous thoroughfare makes the turn to [illegible] House.

The sculptor was Carl Rohl-Smith, who was born in Denmark in 1848. He came to America in the early 80's and [illegible] naturalized citizen of the United States. Among some of his noted works are the soldiers and sailors' monument at Des Moines, Iowa; the Frontiersman at Austin, Tex.; the Indian Massacre, an order from the late George Pullman; and statues for the Woman's temple, Chicago. Carl Rohl-Smith died before the completion of the statue. It was completed by Stephen Sinding, a Danish sculptor, under the direction of Mrs. Rohl-Smith.

City Zoning Catechism

Questions asked by citizens regarding the zoning ordinance are here answered by the City Planning Commission and the City Attorney.

Question—If the zoning ordinance stands, can I keep chickens in the residential zone?

Answer—Certainly you can, as long as you conform to the chicken ordinance already existing.

Question—If the zoning ordinance stands, can I serve tea or meals for money in my home in the residential zone?

Answer—Certainly you can. The zoning ordinance is designed only to prevent the erection of new buildings in the residential zone to be used for business purposes, and the converting of present buildings therein into stores and business structures.

Question—If the zoning ordinance stands, can I continue to sell goods and merchandise occasionally in my home in the residential zone?

Answer—Certainly you can. The zoning ordinance restricts only the erection of new buildings for business purposes and the institution of new businesses in the residential zone. Do not confuse it with the business license ordinance, which is a different thing altogether.

Question—Can't an American citizen do what he wants with his own property?

Answer—The supreme court of Wisconsin in a recent decision says: "Although one owns property, he may not do with it as he pleases, any more than he may act in accordance with his personal desires. As the interest of society justifies restraints upon individual conduct, so also does it justify restraints upon the use to which property may be devoted."

ALFRED E. BURTON, President.
SUSAN PORTER, Secretary.

I am of the opinion that the foregoing replies are a proper interpretation of the zoning ordinance.

ARGYLL CAMPBELL, City Attorney.

The Young cottage on the point has been taken by Mrs. Ordway, mother of Mrs. C. K. Van Riper, who is here from New York.

Week end guests at La Playa were Professor G. N. Lewis, his sister, Mary N. Lewis, and Miss Hess. Professor Lewis is a man of distinguished scientific attainments.

The Alberto concert, announced to take place tonight has been postponed to next Wednesday night. The affair is sponsored by the University club and will be given at the Monterey high school auditorium.

Miss Grace Wickham, puppeteer with the Kegg-Goldsmith Marionettes, who has been traveling in northern California, was home for several days this week. Shortly the company will play the southern California cities.

The regular monthly meeting of the city board of trustees takes place next Tuesday night. Matters to be acted upon will include the zoning ordinance referendum petition, status of streets not dedicated to the city, annual reports of city clerk and treasurer, and probably there will be some action as to street signs.

A timely and interesting book called "The Child and America's Future" is to be studied by a group of Carmel people from week to week. The first meeting will be led by Dr. Alice Kidder of Pacific Grove on Wednesday next at 2 p. m., at the Carmel church on Lincoln street. Those interested in child welfare are invited to hear this able speaker.

Carmel Makes "Copy" for Boston and Cleveland Papers

As the result of the "fake" stories concerning Carmel sent out by local space writers a few weeks ago, and published in the San Francisco and other bay city papers, Eastern comments are beginning to come to the Pine Cone office. We herewith print two such. The first, and rather lengthy one, is from the Boston Transcript under the heading, "Broadcasts," and is signed J. H. S. The second, heading and all, is from a Cleveland, Ohio, paper.

Carmel-by-the-Sea is a town in Monterey county, California, and a little while ago was the favored resort of actors, writers, playwrights, sculptors, painters; in fine, all those who practice the arts and finer professions and are virtually without any care for the profounder truths of political economy. They had a happy time at Carmel-by-the-Sea, for as [illegible] Press despatch puts it, "they found a haven of practical sympathy," which all must admit to be a very pleasant sort of haven. Most of us need sympathy and we like it practical.

The Carmelites Have Fled

When a man of sensitive temperament and a mind attuned to the higher and finer things of beauty, fancy and melodic arrangement, has not had a square meal for a week, the sympathy that he likes best is that which is practical. You may accost that man in public places and assure him of your distinguished consideration and even make him see that you are really horrified at the picture of anybody not having steak and mushrooms three times a day. But if you prop him against a memorial column or an ash barrel and hurry away with a cordial, hearty smile, your sympathy as to his stomach has been not practical. He is pleased with the goodness of your heart and impressed with the closeness of your first. If he be not too faint, he may even say so.

Real and Practical Sympathy

Behold how different his behavior when some great-hearted male or female sees him and sympathizes practically with the artist. This great-hearted person may never have heard of Matthew Arnold; he may read (or she may read) the evening paper in a highly embossed parlor by the light of a lamp whose gold and lapiz lazuli shade would make an Odalisque blush; he may know nothing (or she may know nothing) of line engravings and Sandwich glass; treat the second person plural roughly and set a broad thumb on the face of Grammar's fairest children, but all this drops away when he offers (or she offers) that food of sympathy which can be practically eaten. You may think that artists, people of imagination, are not good judges of the practical. No greater mistake could be made—they can tell the difference between ten bucks and a non-sustaining smile more quickly than light travels.

This sympathy shown by the inhabitants of Carmel, Cal., towards those who came thither for surcease from life's vulgar iteration, was shown in a thousand delicate adroitnesses. Rents were low and sometimes not collected, the vagaries of genius were respected and groceries could be had for a triolet and the smile of Pan. The sun shone at Carmel, Calif., and the goose hung correspondingly high. That was the place to write free verse and say what you thought about sex and the ungallused future and pomegranates. You went to bed when you liked and you stayed there as long as ever you liked. There was progress, but it was of beauty and imagination. You loafed and invited your soul at Carmel by the green and silver sea.

The Doom of Carmel

But it was doomed, this deep bosomed Carmel that sheltered the poet and the painter, for some people of coarse texture had electric lights put in and these cost money, which meant taxes. Telephones were put in, which meant more taxes, for though you will hardly believe it, when a dollar has been taken out, another has to be put in its place, and when a gang of grovelling tradesmen are taxed, they pass the torch until everybody is paying taxes directly or indirectly. The more genial and common belief that capital is a cross between the cornucopia and a kangaroo and carries an inexhaustible supply of young in its stomach, has suffered rudely at the hands of critics who have not souls above the multiplication table.

You must know, then, that the colony felt cruelly the effects of all this and in its flesh these quivering darts received. Yet it blenched not at all and endured the higher cost of living in Carmel, Cal. These women and men paid and thus became true co-heirs in the civic urge. They had never made a study of municipal government, but they were willing to do what they could. But in the air was poised the straw that would break the camel's back, though you know of course that there is nothing personal whatever in our use of this figure and that we should shrink from comparing painters and writers and dramatists with camels. We have been misunderstood before this, whether wilfully or not we shall not say, but we shall not be misunderstood again, that is, if it can be avoided by meticulous precision.

The straw, as we have said, was poised, and it descended with sinister plausibility when the municipal council of Carmel, Cal., levied a sewer assessment. We put the responsibility en- [illegible] we say that when the painters and the players, the poets and the playwrights, the essayists and the self-expressers, the sculptors and the mask-makers heard of this, "it was too much for them."

From this despatch, which might have been worded somewhat differently at no cost at all of clearness, we gather that the collective artists had been perfectly happy without sewers, had never asked for them, had been independent of them and without more than technical warning, had a lot of sewers thrust on them. Here was Carmel, Cal., quaint, lovely, sundrenched, hidalgo haunted, laved by the wide Pacific, quiet, happy, contented. The artists were contented—everybody was contented, and now come a noisy minority of self-seeking politicians and spoil this Eden with a snake-like sewer. So the colony goes. It shakes the dust of Carmel from its feet and seeks those lands where one's musings are not disturbed by sewers. This retreat is dignified and it is timely and the artists come out of the affair very well indeed. But we had wished that the Providence Journal had refrained from a sub headline to this despatch, "Sewer System Last Straw." Such jests are not seemly.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA LOSES ITS CHARM FOR WANDERERS

LITTLE CITY BECOMES TOO CIVILIZED FOR VAGABOND ARTIST

Carmel-by-the-Sea, Cal., Dec. 21.—(By A. P.)—This little city is becoming too civilized for the vagabond artist.

Time was when wandering and impecunious writers, painters, sculptors, playwrights, actors and others of the gentry found Carmel a haven of practical sympathy. The community took them to its heart and when they departed, tore up their I. O. U.'s and forgot. Carmel was proud of this tramp talent.

Rents were low then. It was even possible for a promising youngster to get a shack for nothing, and he could count on dining out at least three times a week. He could stay in bed the rest of the time, if necessary. A sixty-day credit with the grocer was common.

But no more. Evil days have come. Taxes and the cost of living have been growing by bounds. First came electric lights and telephones, and the migratory Bohemians stood for that. But when, recently, the city trustees decided that Carmel needed a sewer system, and levied assessments accordingly, it was too much for them.

"Do Rats Talk to Each Other?" Asks Mr. M. Batty, R. I.

"I got five cakes of Rat-Snap and threw pieces around feed store. Got about half a dozen dead rats a day for two solid weeks. Suddenly, they got lewer. Now we haven't any. Who told them about Rat-Snap." Rats dry up and leave no smell. Three sizes: 35c, 65c, $1.25.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XXXII.—MINNESOTA

MINNESOTA is formed partly from a portion of the Northwest partly by the Northeast section of the Louisiana Purchase. It was the Mississippi river which was the dividing line between these two large territories.

The Eastern section was ceded by France to Great Britain in 1763 and became a part of the United States at the end of the Revolution by the Treaty of Paris in 1783. The Northwest territory was organized by congress four years later. Then, as this great federal domain became settled and was gradually divided into states, the Eastern part of the present State of Minnesota belonged in turn to the Territories of Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

As to the western portion of the state, this was a part of the Louisiana Purchase, which was bought from France by the United States in 1803. As this region became subdivided, Western Minnesota formed a part of the Territories of Louisiana, Missouri and Iowa.

The first white man to penetrate to Minnesota was the French explorer, Duluth, who in 1678 built a fort on Lake Superior and there established a very extensive fur trade. Two years later, Father Hennepin and two companions were sent by La Salle to explore the Upper Mississippi and reached the Falls of St. Anthony, where Minneapolis now stands. But it was not until the Nineteenth century that permanent settlements were made. In 1822 the first mill was built at the Falls of St. Anthony, where were destined to arise such important successors. In 1841, Father Galtier built a chapel dedicated to St. Paul, and this was the foundation of the present great city of that name.

As to the name Minnesota, the state was so called from the river that runs through it, which in the Dakota Indian language makes the words "Minne," meaning "Water," and "Sotah," meaning "Sky-colored." Sometimes the state is called the "North Star State," from the motto on its coat-of-arms.

Minnesota was admitted to the Union in 1858. Its area is 84,682 square miles and it is the most important of our wheat producing states. It has twelve presidential electors.

And the Edifice Will Stand the Test of Time

Whether erecting a building of stone, brick or steel a good architect looks well to the foundation on which the structure is to stand before a piece of building material is placed; for on the foundation depends the life and usefulness of the building after it is finished.

So it is with a man's business career—the proper foundation is necessary—a foundation on which to place the bricks that reach upward toward the finished structure. For the foundation, a bank account is the first essential. Though small in the beginning, a bank account begets confidence, poise and a feeling of independence.

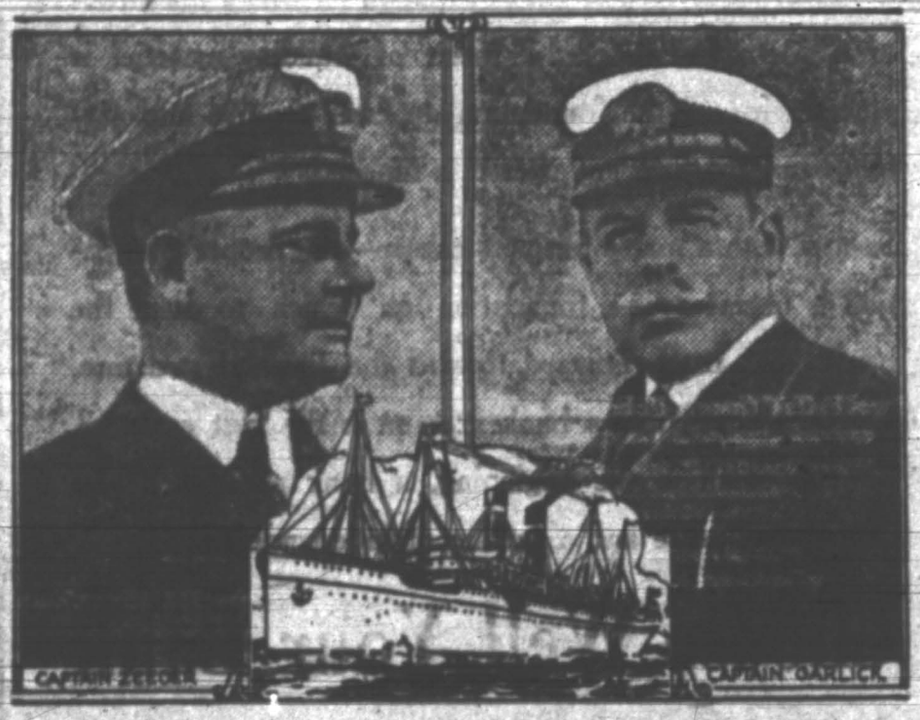
OLD PACIFIC CAPTAINS RETURN



San Francisco.—Among the many picturesque characters of the business world in the membership of the famous Bohemian Club of San Francisco, none more thoroughly representative of the romance of seagoing than Captain Adrian Zeeder.

Years ago Captain Zeeder was putting the fear of authority into the hearts of harshells aboard square riggers plying along this coast or to the Orient. Today he is known in the Atlantic as well as in the Pacific as one of the most successful steamship masters under the American flag. But his first honors as a steamship master, as well as a sailing ship commander, were won in the Pacific, where he served for more than 20 years. He is known in all of the ports from San Francisco to Singapore.

To people who like the sea, and the romance that lurks in the pages of sea stories, Zeeder should stand out as a commanding figure. He holds a commission as Commander, U. S. Naval Reserve, for services rendered in transporting military supplies and troops through the submarine zone in the world war.

It is told of him that while commanding the Siberia he won the admiration of the shipping world and the title among his associates, of "King" Zeeder, by bringing his ship into Hong Kong through a typhoon that sank many stout steamers. For this he was rewarded with a handsome gift of silver from his passengers.

Zeeder will come back to the Pacific in December, in the same ship in which he left it in 1915, the Manchuria, which now heads a fleet of three ocean liners that are to develop passenger traffic between the Pacific Coast states and New York under the flag of the Panama Pacific Line.

Another of the Panama Pacific ships, the Finland, will also be commanded by a veteran Pacific Ocean shipmaster, Captain Thomas W. Garlick, who was born in the old whaling port of New Bedford, and first came to the Pacific nearly 24 years ago.

Thenceforth for 19 years Garlick was a Pacific coast captain, much of the time in the Orient trade. In 1909 he was given command of the steamship Minnesota, the largest under the American flag. In her he went east in 1917, serving as her commander throughout the war, when she carried huge cargoes of military supplies to Europe on repeated voyages.

The third captain of the Panama Pacific fleet, Captain William J. Munro, of the Kroonland, is a newcomer to the Pacific ocean, but nearly a Westerner, as he was born in Minnesota.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, whether as principal or agent, clerk or employee, either for himself or for any other person, or for any body corporate, or as an officer of any corporation, or otherwise, to commence or carry on, within the corporate limits of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, any business, trade, calling, profession or occupation in this ordinance specified, without first having procured a license from said City of Carmel-by-the-Sea so to do, and each and every day or part of a day that said business, trade, calling, profession or occupation in this ordinance specified is conducted or carried on without such license, shall constitute a separate violation of this ordinance, and any person who shall for himself, or for any person or persons, or for any body, corporate or otherwise, commence or carry on any business, trade, calling, profession or occupation aforesaid without first having procured such a license, shall, for each violation of this ordinance, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined therefor in a sum not exceeding three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for each and every day during which such business, trade, calling, profession or occupation is carried on, not exceeding three months in the County Jail of Monterey County, State of California, or shall suffer both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, and the amount of such license shall be deemed a debt due to said city, and such person shall be liable to an action in the name of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea in any court of competent jurisdiction, for the amount of the license imposed on such business, trade, calling, profession or occupation as he shall be engaged in, with costs of suit.

Providing, however, that from and after the passage of this ordinance no license tax or fee whatsoever shall be required of any honorably discharged soldier, sailor, or marine of the United States, or Confederate States, who has served in the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, any Philippine insurrection, or in the Chinese Relief Expedition, or in the war with Germany, who is physically unable to obtain a livelihood by manual labor, and who shall be a qualified elector of the State of California, who may make application for a license to hawk, peddle, or vend any goods, wares or merchandise not prohibited by law, or for the driving or operating of any automobile, public carriage, hack, or other public vehicle used for the purpose of carrying baggage matter or passengers for hire, by or for himself only, and such license or application for license shall be granted free of cost to any of the persons last herein-above mentioned, upon presentation of his certificate of discharge, and proof of his identity to the officer issuing the same.

Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to do away with the necessity of obtaining the license herein mentioned in any case whatsoever, and providing, further, that no license shall be collected or any penalty for the non-payment thereof enforced against any commercial traveler whose business is limited to the goods, wares and merchandise sold or dealt with in the State of California at wholesale.

Section 2. It shall be the duty of the City Marshal of said city to prepare and issue a license under this ordinance for the person, firm or corporation liable to pay a license hereunder, duly signed by said City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector for said city, and to state in such license the amount thereof, the period of time for which the same shall run, the name of the person, firm or corporation for whom issued, and the business, trade, calling, profession or occupation for which the same is issued, and the location or place of business, trade, calling, profession or occupation for which the same is issued, and the location or place of business, trade, calling, profession or occupation is to be carried on, and for that purpose the City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector may confer with persons in interest and may require any person to file his affidavit as to the character of such business.

In no case shall any mistake by the said City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector in stating the amount or terms of such license or the time for which the same is to run, prevent or prejudice the collection by the city of what shall be actually due, with all costs, from anyone carrying on a business, trade, calling, profession or occupation without the license provided for by this ordinance.

Said City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector shall proceed to collect the amount of all licenses due and shall, on or before the first Monday of each quarter, file with the City Clerk of said city a complete list of all licenses collected by him for the previous quarter, and also a list of all persons whom he believes not to be on the license list and who should be charged with the payment of a license, and he shall pay over to the City Treasurer of said city the amount of all licenses collected by him during the preceding quarter and shall take the receipt of the City Treasurer for the same, which he shall file with the City Clerk and shall report the names of, together with the amount of delinquencies, to said Board of Trustees at its first regular meeting in each quarter.

No licenses for any businesses, trades, callings, professions or occupations carried on by any person delinquent in the payment of any license fee hereunder shall be issued to such person, either directly or indirectly, until the payment of all license fees due as specified in this ordinance from such person, together with all costs.

The Board of Trustees may require the City Attorney of said city to bring actions for the recovery of said license fees as in this ordinance provided.

Nothing in this section contained, however, shall prevent a criminal prosecution, as provided in Section 1 hereof, for any violation of the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 3. A separate license must be obtained for each branch establishment or separate place of business in which the trade, calling, profession or occupation is carried on, and each license shall authorize the party obtaining it to carry on, pursue or conduct only that business, trade, calling, profession or occupation described in such license, and only at the location or place of business which is indicated therein.

All licenses shall be paid in advance in legal currency of the United States, at the office of said City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector.

All licenses, unless otherwise expressly stated therein, shall be construed to be quarterly licenses and shall be payable upon the first days of January, April, July and October of each year, and all such licenses shall expire the last days of March, June, September and December of such year.

Quarterly licenses may be issued for the unexpired quarter at the same ratio as the unexpired term bears to the unearned portion of such license, provided, however, that no quarterly license shall be issued for less than the amount due for one month's time. The daily and monthly licenses in this ordinance provided shall be payable to the city each day or month, in advance, and shall be valid only for the day or month for which such license is issued.

No greater or less amount of money shall be charged or received for any license so issued than is provided in this ordinance, and no license shall be sold or issued for any period of time other than as provided in this ordinance.

Section 4. Any person, firm or corporation having a license under the provisions of this ordinance and carrying on a business, trade, calling, profession or occupation at a particular place of business shall keep such license posted and exhibited while the same is in force in some conspicuous part of said place of business.

Every peddler of goods, wares or merchandise, or any person driving or having control of any vehicle, wagon or automobile licensed under this ordinance, is required to carry his license in a license holder on the right hand side of such vehicle, wagon or automobile or to attach a number tag or plate to said right hand side of such vehicle, wagon or automobile, as designated and furnished by the said City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector.

All persons, firms and corporations having a license shall produce and exhibit the same when applying for renewal thereof and whenever requested to do so by the said City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector.

Section 5. The City Marshal and ex-officio License Collector shall have and exercise the power:

First: To make arrests for the violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance.

Second: To enter, free of charge, at any time, any place of business for which a license is required and provided, and demand the exhibition of such license for the current term, from any person, firm or corporation engaged or employed in the transaction of such business; if such person, firm or corporation shall then and there fail to exhibit such license, such person, firm or corporation shall be liable to the penalty or penalties provided in Section 1 of this ordinance.

ART NOTES

Metropolitan Acquires Works by American Painter

A painter who is receiving much post-mortem fame and recognition is Thomas Eakins, some critics going so far as to call him the greatest American painter. A special exhibition of his work is touring the country and on all sides is being received with acclaim. It is now being shown in the West. At the time of the Memorial Exhibition held at the Metropolitan Museum in 1917, that institution bought two of his paintings, splendid examples—"The Writing Master" and "The Thinker." The former, a likeness of the artist's father, painted in 1882, is one of Eakins' most ambitious single portraits and is said to have given him great satisfaction.

Two works of Eakins have lately been acquired by the Museum. The first is a drawing of the "Gross Clinic," made by the artist because he was not satisfied with photographs of the original painting made in 1875 for the Jef-

Figures on Art Attendance

The following statistics concerning attendance at art museums in the United States and abroad afford interesting opportunity for comparison:

The Art Institute of Chicago and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, twelve months, over 1,000,000 each; The Boston Museum of Fine Arts, same period, over 300,000; attendance at the Freer Gallery of Art in Washington since it was opened last spring averaged daily 400.

Attendance at the National Gallery, Trafalgar Square, London, for twelve months, 629,243; Musee du Louvre, 286,400; Musee de Luxembourg, 79,096; Musee de Versailles, 211,631; Musee de Trianon, 120,753.

Remarkable Studies of Women and Children

The name of Mary Cassatt is known as that of one of the greatest living women painters and, better than that, one of the best living painters, and although she has lived but little of her life in America, she is strongly identified with her native country. But aside from the glory that surrounds the name of Cassatt, the rich suggestion which it gives of some of the most remarkable studies of women and children that have ever been painted, perhaps few persons are able to picture the woman who bears it. It is only through her pictures that other American women have, for the most part, come to know this American artist, who has won such lasting renown both in this country and abroad.

New Art Book

"American Artists," by Cortissoz, fills a long felt need in the realm of American art books. Delightful sketches of such men as Thayer, Brush, Kenyon Cox, Albert Ryder, Davies, Innes, Twachtman, Bellows, Duveneck, Henri, Remington and other painters as well as five of our leading sculptors.

We Have a National Gallery

Assertions to the contrary notwithstanding, there is a national gallery of art, owned and possessed by the government in Washington—rather the nucleus of a national gallery. This collection, the growth of many years, came into the possession of the government through the donations of private American citizens. It is valued today at $5,000,000. Part of this collection is on exhibition in one of the buildings of the Smithsonian Institution group—the Natural History building. From a central portion of this structure there have been ousted ethnological exhibits, and wall space given to paintings of the National Gallery. But the space is all too small. Today there are valuable paintings and other objects of art packed away, impossibe of public exhibition because of lack of space.

TEACHERS AND PUPILS WILL BENEFIT

New York City has taken a novel step in providing for long leaves with pay for teachers with ten years of service behind them. The text of the order reads:

"Upon the recommendation of the board of superintendents, the board of education may grant leave of absence with pay to members of the teaching and supervising staff for the purpose of study, travel, or rest, for a period not exceeding one year.

"A leave of absence for study or travel may be granted at the completion of 10 years of continuous satisfactory service in the public schools of the City of New York, and at the completion of any subsequent period of 10 years of continuous satisfactory service. Such leaves of absence shall take effect at the beginning of either school term. A leave of absence for rest may be granted at the completion of 20 years of satisfactory service in the public schools of the City of New York, and after the completion of any subsequent period of 10 years.

"Leaves of absence with pay may be granted for study, travel or rest, to the superintendent of schools and assistant superintendent by the board of education."

Just what this idea may mean to teachers going stale with too continuous work, and how it may favorably affect children thus brought in contact with minds refreshed from travel and study, only time can tell, but educators generally approve the plan and believe it will work out to great advantage and more than pay for itself in results.

NO EQUINOCTIAL STORMS, SAYS WEATHER BUREAU

In both Europe and America there is an old belief that a severe storm—the so-called "equinoctial storm" or "equinoctial gale"—is due about the date of either equinox, that is, March 21 or September 22; or, more particularly, about the date of the autumnal or vernal equinox. The fallacy of this idea consists in identifying any storm that occurs within a week, or several weeks, of the equinox as the equinoctial storm. Statistics show that there is no maximum of storm frequency, either in this country or in Europe, close to the date of either equinox. Of course in the long run storms do occur about these dates, just as they occur at all other times of the year. No reason why storms should be especially frequent at the equinoxes is known to meteorologists.

In the United States the belief in the equinoctial storm as an event of regular recurrence has perhaps been fostered by the fact that West Indian hurricanes are most common during the late summer and early autumn. Occasionally a severe storm of this character sweeps up our Atlantic seaboard, doing a great deal of damage and attracting general attention. If it happens anywhere near September 22, the event is sure to be heralded as "the equinoctial storm."

Will Build in Carmel

After months of planning and building, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Short Jackson are in their new home on Euclid avenue at Rose Terrace in Berkeley. Mrs. Jackson herself drew the plans for the charming residence. One of her friends says, "It is the most beautiful, individual and practical house we have ever seen." Mrs. Jackson says she will build yet one more house—a continental or Mexican-Spanish studio cottage in Carmel.
